Legends About the Moon.
"In Ceylon," says a historian, "it is said that an Sakayamuni was one day wandering half starved in the forest a plough boy met him and offered himself to be slain and cooked for dinner, whereupon the holy Buddha set it on high in the moon that future generations or men might see it and marvel at its piety."

In the Samoan Islands these dark patches are supposed to be portions of a woman's figure. A certain woman was once hammering something with a mallet when the moon arose, looking so much like a breadfruit that the woman asked it to come down and allow her child to eat off a piece of it, but the moon enraged at the insult, gobbled up woman, mallet and child, and there in the moon's belly you may still behold them.

English Street Names.
The English towns have more distinctive and interesting names for their streets than American towns, in most of which many streets are simply numbered. London's Cheapside and Aldwych are more than matched by oddities many times stranger. Boot-ham is a street in York and Botchergate in Carlisle. Norwich is assertive of class distinctions in its Gentleman's walk, and Shrewsbury may stand almost at the head of a list of peculiarities with its street labeled Dogpole, which may or may not be related to Newcastle's Dog-pen Stairs; but, then, Newcastle has Pudding Chare, and what may that signify?

The First Glass Caps.
The first glass cups were made at Alexandria. Some were colored like Bohemian glass and decorated with glass pastes,imitating precious stones and cameos. Some were opaque, others clear as crystal and still others formed of opaque layers welded together like the famous Portland vase, in which the white upper layer had been cut away like that of cameo, leaving a blue ground around the figures.

Anticipated Him.
"I ran across a remarkable jew despit the other day," said the casual acquaintance who is ambitious to be entertaining.

"I'm sorry," said Mr. Cumrox, "but my wife has just returned from Europe with a whole lot of art treasures, and I shouldn't have any place to hang it even if I bought it."—Washington Star.

Thinks Well of Himself.
"Isn't it strange," remarked Mrs. Billings to her husband, "that I can never get a good bargain in shoes?"

"You did once," said her husband.

"When was that?"

"When you got me."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Lost Pleasure.
Mrs. Noorich—isn't it grand to ride in your own carriage?

Mr. Noorich—Yes, but I'd enjoy it more if I could only stand on the pavement and see myself ride by.

The Modest Carver.
"Henry, at our next little dinner we won't have any carving done on the table."

"Good. That's where I generally do it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Cautious Compliment.
"How do you like my new hat?"

"Is it all paid for?"

"Yes."

"It's perfectly beautiful."—Detroit Free Press.

In this simple fact, that we cannot accurately foresee the future, lies a refuge from despair.—Lewes.

On His Mind.
Long—Have you forgotten that $10 you borrowed of me some time ago.

Short—Oh, no, I still have it in mind.

Long—Well, don't you think this would be a good time to relieve your mind of it?

A Hustler.
"Do you think Skinner can make a living out there?"

"Make a living! Why, he'd make a living on a rock in the middle of the ocean if there was another man on the rock."

A Possible Exception.

Wife—Isn't it a fact, dear, that handsome men are proverbially disagreeable?

Husband—Well, I don't know. I always try to be pleasant.

TEN thousand cured women have suffered from female weakness should do anything within reason to secure health. Wine of Cardui is the medicine that appeals to reasonable women—women who hold operations and cutting in horror—women who know that Nature is the best physician. Wine of Cardui gives women back their health by giving Nature a chance to build up the wasted and diseased tissue. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and Nature, when relieved of the drains or of the poisons in the system, makes the functional organs strong and healthy again.

Any woman who is silently suffering untold pains because she is too sensitive to undergo a physician's examination and treatment can find no excuse for not securing relief when Wine of Cardui is offered to her. There is no publicity to deter her. She can take Wine of Cardui in the privacy of her home, with as much assurance of a final cure as though a dozen doctors recommended it. Many physicians do recommend Wine of Cardui to their patients.

Why not get a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today? Wine of Cardui is certainly "won out" women's best friend and I am pleased to give my experience with it. A few months ago I caught a severe cold, having been out in inclement weather, which settled all over me, particularly in the abdomen. I was in almost constant pain. I consulted a physician and took his medicine for a month and without any relief. I then decided I would try your medicine and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I noticed a change in a few days and felt encouraged to continue taking Wine of Cardui, and my patience was rewarded, for in two weeks my pains had left me and I felt like a new woman.

WINE of CARDUI

A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.
